<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Have someone give you some change to count, tell how much it is.</li><li>• Now have them give you a specific amount (for example $.45). Find coins that equal that amount. Can you make it a different way? How much more would you need to get to $1.00?</li></ul>	Place three pieces of bread in three separate Ziplock bags labeled control, dirty hands, and clean hands. Wash hands with soap and water and touch the piece of bread before putting it in the clean bag. Wipe hands on shoes or other items and then touch bread before putting it in the bag labeled dirty. Just put the bread without really touching it in the control bag. Leave on the counter and make observations three times a week for 2-4 weeks. Don't forget to make predictions and also date your observations.	Read two different books. Write an opinion paper on which book you liked better and give at least 3 reasons why you liked that book better. Use examples from the stories to support your opinion.	 The PE/Music section contains two worksheets. The top one is titled "Outdoor Music Scavenger Hunt" with a sub-heading "Dynamics - Forte and piano". It explains that dynamics describe volume, with forte meaning loud and piano meaning soft. It asks students to think of things that are loud (like train horns or rock concerts) and things that are soft (like ocean waves or cat purred). The activity involves finding 5 items from a list and writing down their names. The bottom worksheet is titled "Outdoor Music Scavenger Hunt Worksheet" for Pre-k-2nd grade, focusing on "Dynamics - Forte and piano". It has a table with 5 rows for students to record items found and whether they sounded forte or piano. <table border="1" data-bbox="1564 982 1963 1226"><thead><tr><th>List of Items</th><th>Shake your items in your container.
